

Cabbagetown Safety Walks

In the last week of June, safety walks were conducted in 2 Cabbagetown lane ways that were nominated by residents.

Two Cabbagetown lane ways – Gordon Sinclair and Corn Chamomile – were the site of recent safety walks that were organized and hosted by the Cabbagetown Residents Association and led by 51 Division Police Services.

A specific summary of observations and recommendations for each lane way is available via the following link.

General comments and observations about outdoor spaces

- outdoor spaces that are untidy and overgrown, with garbage/ debris and graffiti convey that residents and the City do not care about the space; this attracts unwanted behaviour such as littering, public urination/ defecation, loitering and other activities (broken window syndrome)
- parking areas, spaces between garages and small spaces are easy to access and provide hiding places
- individuals looking for opportunities to enter properties and/ or commit crimes want easy access and an easy 'get away' – they will try gates to see if unlocked and will often move on if gates are locked, fences are high
- graffiti begets more graffiti and, if not removed, contributes to the feeling that no one cares about this space (which brings more unwanted activity)

What can residents and home owners do to improve safety in and around lane ways?

- regularly trim bushes, trees and plants, pull weeds and pick up garbage and unused materials; this will drastically change the look and feel of the lane way, reduce/ remove dark areas and hiding spots, and improve lighting
- ensure that lights are not obscured by plant material; prune and trim plant material or call the city to have plant material cleared around City installed lights
- homeowners may consider a garage or car port that extends the full width of the property and, where possible, meets adjacent garages and structures; fences should be maximum height allowed by the City
- remove debris that people can climb or leverage to access property
- install sturdy and reliable locks on gates and garage doors; ensure locks are engaged at all times
- paint over or remove graffiti asap and preferably within a day or two of tagging

What resources are available to assist residents and the community?

Toronto Police Services – Community Response Unit

If you see and/or want to report suspicious activity, call the Toronto Police Services Community Response Unit (CRU) at 416-808-2222. Please call often and share as much detail as you can. CRU will respond and will return to problematic areas; more visible police leads to less traffic in lane ways and other areas.

City of Toronto

Access the City of Toronto 311 services to request that that are obscuring light standards be trimmed, report burned bulbs, or report other issues . A note about thefts of personal property.

Toronto Police Services shared that theft of personal items – either by an individual or groups as 'swarmings' - occur at any time of the day and night. By far, the most common items targeted and stolen are cell phones, high end ball caps and clothing. Police services recommend that all residents be aware of the risks and their surroundings. If concerned, use cellular phones in well populated areas such as retail stores or restaurants.
